Phone numbers.

I would like to solicit mobile phone numbers for supporter so that when I am on radio I don't find the next five callers are all people that George has got to call in.

receiving a text message doesn't shouldn't cost anyone anything. I would simply send out a short sms that says the details of the radio show.

How to do this? Perhaps I will Private message people on the hutch and say "hey, if you are OK with me having your mobile number, please send it to me, and I will email you if we are doing any media as I am a little tired of being hit by 5 opponents already holding on the phone when I walk in to the radio station. "

Your thoughts?

Supporters?

I am rallying supporter to say to the media tomorrow what they think of our proposals. Any thoughts on people outside the usual universe?

P

Thanks for keeping me in the dinner circle Wade.

I too feel that there is much more to be gained from some dinner table discussions in the very near future. I am disappointed that I was unable to be a part of what was obviously something very fruitful. Though I never doubted it would be given the attendees.

I am open to suggestion as to how we may all get together, including the illusive Botak, soonest. I hope to be logistically available within 7 days or so. But weekends are going to be a better option.

I particularly enjoy the obvious energy all parties have gained from this meeting. Like so much at Souths at the moment it is refreshing that there remains a core of people who will be frank with each other. That in itself is a step in the right direction for the eventual success of the jersey that has been thus far trampled on by self-interest and blazer-wearing.

Whoops! Sermonising again... Note to all parties - if you don't want an apocalyptic outlook to your dinner table, don't invite anyone who goes by the first name 'The'.

Dear Peter,

Firstly B and P and myself would like to thank you for inviting us into your home last night and for your great hospitality. It was a very enjoyable evening and I agree more time to discuss things would be beneficial to all.

I really do like the idea of a public forum because I believe if more supporters had the chance to hear what you've got to say first hand they would be as excited as I am about the possibilities that exist for the South Sydney DRLFC with your proposal.

If we are going to organise a forum we have to do it right! Firstly, we need to determine what time of day/week is best for you. Weeknight evening or weekend afternoon? A weekend would probably draw more people out.

I think we need to find a better venue also. I don't think Redfern Town Hall is suitable to be honest. Parking is a problem and we don't want to get offside with local residents. Maybe Sydney Town Hall could be organised? That's centrally located close to public transport but may not be ideal for reasons similar to why the Juniors have been ruled out?

I think it's crucial that we ask potential attendees to register for the event prior as well. We ask them for name, contact number and Football Club badge number. This would I believe go along way in helping prevent the forces of evil stacking the forum with plants, stooges and CFMEU goons and trying to overwhelm the forum with their narrow minded agendas. We can also limit numbers if need be this way and keep it a more intimate affair.

P is going to contact John Gibbs about you appearing one night on Sport Tonight between 6-7pm. Then it's just a matter of when. Probably best to wait until you've released more info so there's more to talk about and the subject becomes topical again. It would probably be more efficient to deal directly with Pikey on this one. Basically when you're ready to appear let him know a few days beforehand.

Anyway, that's it from me now, I've got to take off soon and pick up my boy from preschool. Take it easy and I hope you got plenty of rest last night after busy weekend! :)
