Dear Mr Miles

Thank you for your letter of 13 November 2006.

As I have said on a number of occasions, there can be no justification for attacks on an individual's character or standing through anonymous dispatches via the internet. This is something I have deplored since I began my association with the Football Club in 1999, and I know that it is something that the Football Club is currently attempting to address once and for all through various new measures.

Of course, website forums are multi-headed creatures and while some innocent individuals may have, from time to time, posted on the particular website you refer to, it is unfair to infer from those limited associations that they condone the highly offensive material that emanates from that portal.

May I also take this opportunity to remind you that some of the more vicious dispatches from the website you refer to have been directed to me personally and to others who are not necessarily seen to be aligned to George Piggins. It seems that the authors of these communications define their existence by the venom they anonymously emit from their keyboards and it matters little to them to whom that hatred is directed.

As I have said, the Football Club is currently working on a couple of initiatives to rid our Football Club of this sorry situation once and for all. I am not in a position to reveal the details of these initiatives at this stage, but you can be assured that they are being diligently pursued.

As far as Mr Singleton's "disqualification" is concerned, you need to be aware that Mr Singleton was not disqualified (or suspended) "for life" as you suggest. Mr Singleton's membership of the Football Club was suspended by the Board for 12 months (from 20 February 2005) as a result of his conduct at Redfern Town Hall on the evening of 24 November 2004 which was found by the Board to be prejudicial to the interests and welfare of the Football Club. Upon the expiration of that period, Mr Singleton applied to be readmitted to membership (as he was entitled to do).

Thank you again for writing to me and here's to a terrific 2007 season for the Rabbitohs.

Yours sincerely
